

1.

- a. Shyp is a simplify idea because the website took the existing idea of on-demand shipping and made it easier for people through USPS.
- b. Curofy is a virtualize idea because the company leverages on the current clinical practice and attempts to advance it, transforming how healthcare organizations operate.
- c. cmmnts
 - i. The idea of the product is to create a comment system easily for the user's website.
 - ii. The idea is to simplify the tasks easier by removing the process of making a comment system manually and to use the product to finish it easily.
 - iii. The idea acts more as a vitamin as the product is to make a difficult task easier by transferring an existing code to the user's website for a simple system, but isn't urgent where it would need to be required.
 - iv. The idea can be difficult to monetize since there are other resources that could explain how to make a comment system instead of paying for one.
 - v. The idea is simple and easy to describe due to how simplistic the product is which is an easy way of making a comment system for a website.
 - vi. The idea is not personally relevant to me or someone close to me.
 - vii. The idea doesn't have a large market .
 - viii. The idea doesn't contain a secret sauce since it's used more like a cheat sheet with the answer to making something.

2.

- a. Accessibility, Ease of Use
- b. Readily available information to find, easy to look up what people needed
- c. A website that makes information on a card game I actively play easier to be accessible and easy to find information that people want.
- d. My idea has existed before.
- e. It would be useful in entertainment since the product focuses on a game that is actively being played.

3.

- a. The product would have a database of cards and other relevant information that may be needed.
- b. The product is personally relevant to me because I play the game for a long period of time and there have been times where certain information is difficult to find.
- c. The product would solve the accessibility problem that the game would have to a certain audience that isn't readily available.
- d. The website would be more of a content website that has information readily for people that may need them.
- e. The product would be a vitamin since the website would not be essential, but more of a resource.

- f. The product can be monetized, but would hurt the product more than benefit from it.
- g. The product can be simple depending on how the website is designed, but it would be easy to describe.
- h. The likely users of my product would be people who have a similar interest to the game that is on the website. The product wouldn't have a large market, but would attract some people who enjoy the game.
- i. My product would not have a secret sauce since it's more of a resource website than anything fully special.